INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this Protocol is to guide councillors and Officer/Clerks of the council in their relations with one another. The Protocol's intention is to build and maintain good working relationships between councillors and Officer/Clerks as they work together. Employees who are required to give advice to councillors are referred to as "Officer/Clerks" throughout.

A strong, constructive, and trusting relationship between councillors and Officer/Clerks is essential to the effective and efficient working of the council.

This Protocol also seeks to reflect the principles underlying the Code of Conduct which applies to councillors and the employment terms and conditions of Officer/Clerks. The shared objective is to enhance and maintain the integrity (real and perceived) of local government.

The following extract from the Local Government Association guidance on the 2020 Model councillor Code of Conduct states that:

"Both councillors and Officer/Clerks are servants of the public and are indispensable to one another. Together, they bring the critical skills, experience and knowledge required to manage an effective local authority.

At the heart of this relationship, is the importance of mutual respect. councillor-Officer/Clerk relationships should be conducted in a positive and constructive way.

Therefore, it is important that any dealings between councillors and Officer/Clerks should observe reasonable standards of courtesy, should show mutual appreciation of the importance of their respective roles and that neither party should seek to take unfair advantage of their position or seek to exert undue influence on the other party.

councillors provide a democratic mandate to the local authority and are responsible to the electorate whom they represent. They set their local authority's policy framework, ensure that services and policies are delivered and scrutinise local authority services.

[Councillors of the executive,] Chairs and vice chairs of committees have additional responsibilities. These responsibilities will result in increased expectations and relationships with Officer/Clerks that are more complex. Such councillors must still respect the impartiality of Officer/Clerks and must not ask them to undertake work of a party-political nature or compromise their position with other councillors or other Officer/Clerks.

Officer/Clerks provide the professional advice and managerial expertise and information needed for decision making by councillors and to deliver the policy framework agreed by councillors. They are responsible for implementing decisions of councillors and the day-to-day administration of the local authority.

The roles are very different but need to work in a complementary way.

It is important for both sides to respect these differences and ensure that they work in harmony. Getting that relationship right is an important skill. That is why the code requires councillors to respect an Officer/Clerk's impartiality and professional expertise. In turn Officer/Clerks should respect a councillor's democratic mandate as the people accountable to the public for the work of the local authority. It is also important for a local authority to have a councillor-Officer/Clerk protocol which sets out how this relationship works and what both councillors and Officer/Clerks can expect in terms of mutual respect and good working relationships."

This Protocol covers:

- The respective roles and responsibilities of the councillors and the Officer/Clerk;
- Relationships between councillors and Officer/Clerks;
- Where/who a councillor or an Officer/Clerk should go to if they have concerns;
- Who is responsible for making decisions.

BACKGROUND

This Protocol is intended to assist councillors and Officer/Clerks, in approaching some of these sensitive circumstances which arise in a challenging working environment.

The reputation and integrity of the council is significantly influenced by the effectiveness of councillors and the Officer/Clerk working together to support each other's roles.

The aim is effective and professional working relationships characterised by mutual trust, respect and courtesy. Overly close personal familiarity between councillors and Officer/Clerks is not recommended as it has the potential to damage this relationship

ROLES OF COUNCILLORS AND OFFICER/CLERKS

The respective roles of councillors and Officer/Clerks can be summarised as follows:

- Councillors and Officer/Clerks are servants of the public and they are indispensable to one another, but their responsibilities are distinct.
- Councillors are responsible to the electorate and serve only for their term of office.
- Officer/Clerks are responsible to the council. Their job is to give advice to councillors and to the council, and to carry out the council's work under the direction and control of the council and relevant committees.

Councillors

Councillors have four main areas of responsibility:

- To determine council policy and provide community leadership;
- To monitor and review council performance in implementing policies and delivering services;
- To represent the council externally; and
- To act as advocates for their constituents.

All councillors have the same rights and obligations in their relationship with the Officer/Clerk, regardless of their status and should be treated equally.

Councillors should not involve themselves in the day to day running of the council. This is the Officer/Clerk's responsibility, and the Officer/Clerk will be acting on instructions from the council or its committees, within an agreed job description.

In line with the councillors' Code of Conduct, a councillor must treat others with respect, must not bully or harass people and must not do anything which compromises, or is likely to compromise, the impartiality of those who work for, or on behalf of, the council.

Officer/Clerks can expect councillors:

- to give strategic leadership and direction and to seek to further their agreed policies and objectives with the understanding that councillors have the right to take the final decision on issues based on advice
- to act within the policies, practices, processes and conventions established by the council
- to work constructively in partnership with Officer/Clerks acknowledging their separate and distinct roles and responsibilities
- to understand and support the respective roles and responsibilities of Officer/Clerks and their associated workloads, pressures and reporting lines
- to treat them fairly and with respect, dignity and courtesy
- to act with integrity, to give support and to respect appropriate confidentiality
- to recognise that Officer/Clerks do not work under the instruction of individual councillors or groups
- not to subject them to bullying, intimidation, harassment, or put them under undue pressure.
- to treat all Officer/Clerks, partners (those external people with whom the council works) and members of the public equally, and not discriminate based on any characteristic such as age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation.
- not to request Officer/Clerks to exercise discretion which involves acting outside the council's policies and procedures
- not to authorise, initiate, or certify any financial transactions or to enter into any contract, agreement or undertaking on behalf of the council or in their role as a councillor without proper and lawful authority
- not to use their position or relationship with Officer/Clerks to advance their personal interest or those of others or to influence decisions improperly
- to comply at all times with the councillors' Code of Conduct, the law, and such other policies, procedures, protocols and conventions agreed by the council.
- respect the impartiality of Officer/Clerks and do not undermine their role in carrying out their duties
- do not ask Officer/Clerks to undertake work, or act in a way, which seeks to support or benefit a particular political party or gives rise to an Officer/Clerk being criticised for operating in a party-political manner
- do not ask Officer/Clerks to exceed their authority where that authority is given

Chairs and vice-chairs of council and committees

Chairs and vice-chairs have additional responsibilities as delegated by the council. These responsibilities mean that they may have to have a closer working relationship with employees than other councillors do. However, they must still respect the impartiality of Officer/Clerks and must not ask them to undertake work or anything else which would prejudice their impartiality.

Officer/Clerks

The primary role of Officer/Clerks is to advise, inform and support all members and to implement the agreed policies of the council.

Officer/Clerks are responsible for day-to-day managerial and operational decisions within the council, including directing and overseeing the work of any more junior Officer/Clerks. Councillors should avoid inappropriate involvement in such matters.

In performing their role Officer/Clerks will act professionally, impartially and with neutrality. Whilst Officer/Clerks will respect a councillor's view on an issue, the Officer/Clerk should not be influenced or pressured to make comments, or recommendations which are contrary to their professional judgement or views.

Officer/Clerks must:

- implement decisions of the council and its committees which are lawful, which have been properly approved in accordance with the requirements of the law and are duly recorded. This includes respecting the decisions made, regardless of any different advice given to the council or whether the decision differs from the Officer/Clerk's view.
- work in partnership with councillors in an impartial and professional manner
- treat councillors fairly and with respect, dignity and courtesy
- treat all councillors, partners and members of the public equally, and not discriminate based on any characteristic such as age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation.
- assist and advise all parts of the council. Officer/Clerks must always act to the best of their abilities in the best interests of the authority as expressed in the council's formal decisions.
- respond to enquiries and complaints in accordance with the council's standards protocol
- be alert to issues which are, or are likely to be, contentious or politically sensitive, and be aware of the implications for councillors, the media or other sections of the public.
- act with honesty, respect, dignity and courtesy at all times
- provide support and learning and development opportunities for councillors to help them in performing their various roles in line with the council's training and development policy
- not seek to use their relationship with councillors to advance their personal interests

- or to influence decisions improperly
- to act within the policies, practices, processes and conventions established by the council

Officer/Clerks have the right not to support councillors in any role other than that of councillor, and not to engage in actions incompatible with this Protocol.

In giving advice to councillors, and in preparing and presenting reports, it is the responsibility of the Officer/Clerk to express his/her own professional views and recommendations. An Officer/Clerk may report the views of individual councillors on an issue, but the recommendation should be the Officer/Clerk's own. If a councillor wishes to express a contrary view they should not pressurise the Officer/Clerk to make a recommendation contrary to the Officer/Clerk's professional view, nor victimise an Officer/Clerk for discharging his/her responsibilities.

There are exceptional circumstances where a councillor can fulfil the role of Officer/Clerk, for example where there is a vacancy. This can only be done if the councillor is not paid for the role and should only ever be short-term while the council seeks to fill a vacancy. There will need to be a particular clear understanding of when the councillor is acting as a councillor and when acting as the Proper Officer/Clerk.

The Relationship: General

Councillors and Officer/Clerks are indispensable to one another. However, their responsibilities are distinct. Councillors are accountable to the public, whereas Officer/Clerks are accountable to the council as a whole.

At the heart of this Protocol is the importance of mutual respect and also of civility. Councillor/Officer/Clerk relationships are to be conducted in a positive and constructive way. Therefore, it is important that any dealings between councillors and Officer/Clerks should observe standards of courtesy and that neither party should seek to take unfair advantage of their position nor seek to exert undue influence on the other party.

Individual councillors should not actively seek to undermine majority decisions of the corporate body, as this could then bring them into conflict with Officer/Clerks who have been charged with promoting and implementing the council's collectively-determined course of action.

Councillors should not raise matters relating to the conduct or capability of an Officer/Clerk, or of Officer/Clerks collectively, in a manner that is incompatible with this Protocol at meetings held in public or on social media. This is a long-standing tradition in public service. An Officer/Clerk has no means of responding to criticisms like this in public.

A councillor who is unhappy about the actions taken by, or conduct of, an Officer/Clerk should:

- avoid personal attacks on, or abuse of, the Officer/Clerk at all times
- ensure that any criticism is well founded and constructive
- ensure that any criticism is made in private

- take up the concern with the chair

Neither should an Officer/Clerk raise with a councillor matters relating to the conduct or capability of another councillor or Officer/Clerk or to the internal management of the council in a manner that is incompatible with the objectives of this Protocol.

Potential breaches of this Protocol are considered below.

Expectations

All councillors can expect:

- A commitment from Officer/Clerks to the council as a whole, and not to any individual councillor, group of councillors or political group;
- A working partnership;
- Officer/Clerks to understand and support respective roles, workloads and pressures;
- A timely response from Officer/Clerks to enquiries and complaints;
- Officer/Clerk's professional and impartial advice, not influenced by political views or personal preferences;
- Timely, up to date, information on matters that can reasonably be considered appropriate and relevant to their needs, having regard to any individual responsibilities or positions that they hold;
- Officer/Clerks to be aware of and sensitive to the public and political environment locally;
- Respect, courtesy, integrity and appropriate confidentiality from Officer/Clerks and other councillors;
- Training and development opportunities to help them carry out their role effectively;
- Not to have personal issues raised with them by Officer/Clerks outside the council's agreed procedures;
- That Officer/Clerks will not use their contact with councillors to advance their personal interests or to influence decisions improperly.

Officer/Clerks can expect from councillors:

- A working partnership;
- An understanding of, and support for, respective roles, workloads and pressures;
- Leadership and direction;
- Respect, courtesy, integrity and appropriate confidentiality;
- Not to be bullied or to be put under undue pressure;
- That councillors will not use their position or relationship with Officer/Clerks to advance their personal interests or those of others or to influence decisions improperly;
- That councillors will at all times comply with the council's adopted Code of Conduct.

Some general principles

Close personal relationships between councillors and Officer/Clerks can confuse their separate roles and get in the way of the proper conduct of council business, not least by creating a perception in others that a particular councillor or Officer/Clerk is getting preferential treatment. Special relationships with particular individuals are not recommended as it can create suspicion that an employee favours that councillor above others.

The Proper Officer/Clerk (usually called the Clerk) is the head of paid services and has a line- management responsibility to all other staff. Communications should be made directly with the Proper Officer/Clerk, unless it is agreed by the Proper Officer/Clerk that such communications may take place directly with other Officer/Clerks over a particular matter. Councillors should not give instructions directly to the Proper Officer/Clerk's staff without the express approval of the Proper Officer/Clerk.

COUNCILLORS' ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND TO COUNCIL DOCUMENTS

Councillors are free to approach Officer/Clerks to provide them with such information, explanation and advice as they may reasonably need in order to assist them in discharging their role as members of the council. This can range from a request for general information about some aspect of the council's activities to a request for specific information on behalf of a constituent. Such approaches should normally be directed to the Officer/Clerk.

The legal rights of councillors to inspect council documents are covered partly by statute and partly by the common law.

The common law right of councillors is based on the principle that any member has a prima facie right to inspect council documents so far as their access to the documents is reasonably necessary to enable the member properly to perform their duties as a member of the council. This principle is commonly referred to as the "need to know" principle.

The exercise of this common law right depends therefore upon the councillor's ability to demonstrate that they have the necessary "need to know". In this respect a member has no right to "a roving commission" to go and examine documents of the council. Mere curiosity is not sufficient. The crucial question is the determination of the "need to know". This question must be determined by the Officer/Clerk.

In some circumstances (e.g. a committee member wishing to inspect documents relating to the functions of that committee) a councillor's "need to know" will normally be presumed. In other circumstances (e.g. a councillor wishing to inspect documents which contain personal information about third parties) a councillor will normally be expected to justify the request in specific terms. Any council information provided to a councillor must only be used by the councillor for the purpose for which it was provided i.e. in connection with the proper performance of the councillor's duties as a member of the council.

For completeness, councillors do, of course, have the same right as any other member of the public to make requests for information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

CORRESPONDENCE

Correspondence between an individual councillor and an Officer/Clerk should not normally be copied (by the Officer/Clerk) to any other councillor. Where exceptionally it is necessary to copy the correspondence to another councillor, this should be made clear to the original councillor. In other words, a system of “silent copies” should not be employed. Acknowledging that the “BCC” system of e-mailing is used, it should be made clear at the foot of any e-mails if another councillor has received an e-mail by adding “CC councillor X.”

Official letters or emails on behalf of the council should normally be sent out under the name of the Officer/Clerk, rather than under the name of a councillor. It may be appropriate in certain circumstances (e.g. representations to a Government Minister) for a letter or email to appear over the name of the chair, but this should be the exception rather than the norm. Letters or emails which, for example, create obligations or give instructions on behalf of the council should never be sent out in the name of a councillor.

Correspondence to individual councillors from Officer/Clerks should not be sent or copied to complainants or other third parties if they are marked “confidential”. In doing so, the relevant Officer/Clerk should seek to make clear what is to be treated as being shared with the councillor in confidence only and why that is so.

PRESS AND MEDIA

Councils are accountable to their electorate. Accountability requires local understanding. This will be promoted by the council, explaining its objectives and policies to the electors and customers. Councils use publicity to keep the public informed and to encourage public participation. The council needs to tell the public about the services it provides. Good effective publicity should aim to improve public awareness of the council’s activities. Publicity is a sensitive matter in any political environment because of the impact it can have. Expenditure on publicity can be significant. It is essential to ensure that decisions on publicity are properly made in accordance with the Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity and the council’s Media Protocol.

The Officer/Clerk may respond to press enquiries but should confine any comments to the facts of the subject matter and the professional aspects of the function concerned. On no account must an Officer/Clerk expressly or impliedly make any political opinion, comment or statement.

Any press release that may be necessary to clarify the council’s position in relation to disputes, major planning developments, court issues or individuals’ complaints should be approved by the Officer/Clerk.

The chair (or chair of a committee) may act as spokespersons for the council in responding to the press and media and making public statements on behalf of the council but should liaise with the Officer/Clerk on all forms of contact with the press and media. The council may also appoint individual councillors as spokespeople where there is an area of particular expertise but this should only be done with the agreement of the council.

The council must comply with the provisions of the Local Government Act 1986 (“the Act”) regarding publicity. All media relations work will comply with the national Code of Practice for Local Government Publicity. The Code is statutory guidance and the council must have regard to it and follow its provisions when making any decision on publicity.

The LGA has produced useful guidance on the Publicity Code -

IF THINGS GO WRONG

Procedure for Officer/Clerks:

From time to time the relationship between councillors and the Officer/Clerk (or other employees) may break down or become strained. Whilst it is always preferable to resolve matters informally, it is important that the council adopts a formal grievance protocol or procedure. The principal council's monitoring Officer/Clerk may be able to offer a mediation/conciliation role or it may be necessary to seek independent advice. The chair of the council should not attempt to deal with grievances or work related performance or line management issues on their own. The council should delegate authority to a small group of councillors to deal with all personnel matters.

The law requires all employers to have disciplinary and grievance procedures. Adopting a grievance procedure enables individual employees to raise concerns, problems or complaints about their employment in an open and fair way.

Where the matter relates to a formal written complaint alleging a breach of the councillors' Code of Conduct the matter must be referred to the principal council's monitoring Officer/Clerk in the first instance in line with the Localism Act 2011. The council may however try to resolve any concerns raised informally before they become a formal written allegation.

Procedure for councillors:

If a councillor is dissatisfied with the conduct, behaviour or performance of the Officer/Clerk or another employee, the matter should be reported to the chair and then raised with the Officer/Clerk in the first instance. If the matter cannot be resolved informally, it may be necessary to invoke the council's disciplinary procedure.
